HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H R Hoagland we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used

It fastens without bolt or screw and is therefore easily and speedily separated It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use and with small expense We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent heretofore considered the best in use

Speech by Secretary Boutwell

Ithaca ... Oct 9 Secretary Boutwell delivered an address to a large audience to night in favor of the Republican State ticket most of which was devoted to the finance question He stated that the policy of the Administration is to pay the public debt principal and interest in coin or its equivalent He claimed that if none of the public debt had been paid ... it would now amount to $3 ... 000 000 in addition to $356 000 000 of notes in circulation If we pay $100 000 000 yearly which we can do under the present system of taxation the public debt will be extinguished in twenty two years at $20 000 000 in thirty years

Secretary Boutwell considers it certain that unless there be some disturbance of the peace of the world or some national calamity we can completely fund the debt at a rate of interest not exceeding 4½ per cent and thus save from $15 000 000 to $25 000 000 yearly $66 000 000 have been paid since March 18

The fence enclosing the site of the new Post office in New York city was recently advertised to be leased to parties wishing to post bills thereon. Bids for the lease were opened on the 7th inst and ranged from one thousand to seven thousand five hundred per year Messrs Gardiner Myrtle & Huff (a firm of bill posters we presume leased the fence for two years for $15 000 that being the highest price bid There were twelve bids showing that there was no lack of competition

The magnitude of the Cuban insurrection and its immense cost to Spain is evidenced by the fact that according to the official records the Spanish government has sent in addition to the 15 000 regular troops stationed on the Island 21 000 more The Diario de Cuba semi officially announced a few days since that the roster of the regular force shows only 18 000 rank and file It appears from this that during eleven months of the insurrection Spain has lost in killed and wounded and by desertions and deaths 18 000 men

The London Spectator is publishing a short series of papers on the prospects of the English laborer in America They are condensed by the author from a report made by him to the Society of Arts which sent him out to examine the question thoroughly He had most unusual opportunities for information having been accredited equally to the bureaus and to the workingmen and his opinion may we believe be summed up thus The English mechanic gains little or nothing by emigration except the chance of a good gratis education for his children The unskilled laborer gains in addition a great increase of wages of comfort and of liberty while the agricultural laborer may be said to gain everything

The total receipts of the Linn County Agricultural Association at the Fair held last week were Gate receipts, $1 457 75; licenses $540 50, entries $497 45—making a total of $2 495 70 This shows a slight falling off as compared with the receipts of last year

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: On Sunday last four wagon loads of pilgrims passed through town for Oregon They had left this State in the spring for California, and had pushed south as far as San Joaquin valley They were leaving California because it was too dry and next spring they will no doubt leave Oregon because it is not dry enough.

The Albany Register tells of a heavy rain storm at that place and adds It has been computed that if the storm had continued two hours, the whole country would have been one vast lake of water The genius who ciphered out this astonishing conclusion must have just been reading Governor Whiteaker's celebrated message wherein the same great idea is presented, relative to the flood of 1861-2

From the Farmer: Some of our exchanges are making record of the occasional large yields of wheat in California. Mr R. C. Geer of this county, some years ago raised one "stool" of wheat, the product of one grain, comprising two hundred and fifty seven stalks and averaging sixty grains of wheat to the stalk making in the whole 15 420 grains California, or any other State in the Union will have something to boast of when the above yield is beaten

From the Salem Statesman: While the steamer Albany was on her way up the river Friday, when just above Lincoln a deer was seen swimming the river It had been driven into the river by a hunting party that watched it on one side, while other parties were waiting to capture it when it should land upon the other Just at this critical point the steamer came up and the passengers opened an unavailing fire upon the hunted venison. As the boat drew close to it, By Geer, an Oregon raised boy who of course knows how to throw a rope, hastily rigged a lasso and at the first throw took the deer by the horns and it was hauled on board safe and unharmed, to the great mortification of the expectant hunters on either shore.

At a Loss for an Issue

The Albany Democrat states that the ORE STAR continues to hold forth in the interest of a protective tariff and cheap labor and moreover that the ORE STAR wants the laborers to earn a Chinaman's wages that will bring him mind and body to the degradation and enslavement of the Chinaman. We are sorry to find that the Democrat has read this journal to so little purpose. There are two points in its statements as quoted above challenge our attention.

First it is utterly impossible for a person to be in favor both of a protective tariff and of a general system of cheap labor. Such a position would be a contradiction of terms. A protective tariff has always been the remedy in this country against low wages for our mechanics and artisans. Nothing but our tariff at this moment prevents the reduction of wages in this country to the rates paid in Europe. We oppose the free trade which the Democrat advocates, for the reason first that the Government is obliged to have a revenue which it has always been able to raise more effective by a tariff than by any other means and second, because it is the duty of the Government to foster home industry. We now derive $180,000,000 in gold from customs. Free trade means internal taxation to this amount, in addition to the $150,000,000 which we already pay through the agency of internal taxes. Can any intelligent person suppose that the country would endure to have this vast amount of money raised annually by internal taxation? The supposition is chimerical and ridiculous. And let it be remembered that the necessities of the country are such that it cannot get on with much less—that is, if we are to continue to pay the debt at the rate of one hundred millions a year. It requires $130,000,000 per annum to pay interest, $100,000,000 more goes annually to reduce the principal, and the ordinary current expenses of the Government absorb most of the remainder. Now how are we to get along with less revenue? The ordinary expenses of Government cannot be reduced much below the present figures for they do not now greatly exceed the regular expenses in Buchanan's time. Shall we stop paying the debt and thus cut off the outlay of $100,000,000 a year? Or shall we make short work of the whole thing by repudiation, and thus stop it, interest and all? This doubtless would be the Democrat's plan but such a plan would not please the people. They mean to pay the debt, and to pay it they know the country must have a large revenue. To raise so large a revenue by internal taxation is altogether impossible therefore the main reliance must be the tariff. This is a source to which the Government has always looked for the greater part of its revenue. The most successful Democratic administrations have been those which have fostered the protective system. Now, since we must depend so largely on the tariff for the revenue which the Government requires, it is wise for us to make that tariff a protective one and defend the leading branches of home industry against the competition and underselling of foreign countries. Under this system we accomplish a double result, viz: We obtain a revenue which we could get in no other way and stimulate American industry by protecting it against foreign competition—at the same time securing to our laboring classes higher wages than are paid among the over crowded populations of the old world. The American people have, during the last fifty years, tried not a few experiments on this question, and the general fact as shown by the unquestionable record of history, is that home industry and home manufactories have flourished when they have been adequately protected, and languished when they have not.

As to the other statement of the Democrat that "the OREGONIAN wants the laborer to earn Chinaman's wages that will bring him down to the Chinaman's level," we have only to say that this is a specimen of the fine fiction which the Democratic imagination of these times is so prolific in. Because we have shown the desirability of employing Chinese labor to develop industries in which it will not pay to employ high-priced labor, the entire Democratic press of Oregon, (just now exceedingly hard up for political issues) join in attributing to us such doctrines as that stated by the Albany paper. Because we have shown that it is better to make use of this cheaper kind of labor in certain employments than to suffer those employments to remain neglected, these organs are continually having such spasms as that witnessed in the Democrat. They are ridiculous enough to assume that the handful of Asiatics in this country will reduce wages in the whole field of labor. There are not more than 80,000 of them here and they are not coming any faster than they came a dozen years ago, when the Democratic party had control of the Government. The talk of the Albany organ is merely the clap-trap of a political party which is in desperate straits for an "issue" and don't know where or how to find one.

Flashes of Financial Genius.

That astonishing financial genius at Oregon City is out in another essay. He slings figures with the complacent facility or sublime audacity of a young gentleman who has just been initiated into the profound mysteries of the "Double Rule of Three," and who expects an admiring world to applaud his wonderful performances. This time he proceeds to prove, in a two-column article that the national debt is not decreasing and that Secretary Boutwell's statements are a trick to deceive the people. But they cannot deceive him, with the fertile imagination and financial and mathematical genius which he possesses—the Admirable Crichton that he is! And thus he proceeds to demolish the Secretary who is attempting to practice his duperies on the country:

> The report shows that the present national debt is $2,634,609,856 09, less $105,106,465 81 in coin and $65,580,031 30 in currency, now in the Treasury. And boldly deducting this amount of money in the Treasury from the amount of the indebtedness the announcement is recklessly and boldly made, that our present national debt is only $2,468,495,0_5 01 instead of $2,634,609,856 09, being just one hundred and sixty six million one hundred and fourteen thousand seven hundred and eighty four dollars and eight cents less than it actually is according to Republican statements and figures.

That is in stating the indebtedness of the country the cash in the Treasury should not be deducted from the gross amount of the debt. Why? Let our philosopher illustrate:

> If John owes James one hundred dollars and has the money in his pocket with which he might pay it, is the fact that he has the money a payment of his debt or any evidence tending to show that it has been paid?

This is profound reasoning. Is not the fact that John has the money an evidence of his ability to pay the debt? Is not the one hundred dollars a part of his assets? So is not the one hundred and sixty six millions a part of the assets of the Government. With this same cash the Secretary is buying bonds every week and thus reducing the debt. If Clackamas county owes $20,000 and has $11,000 in the Treasury isn't the actual financial condition of the county exactly expressed by the statement "Amount of debt less cash in the Treasury $1,000"? This is precisely the way the national debt is stated and we believe the Oregon City writer is the only person who has shown intellectual acumen enough to question its accuracy. His argument on this head we are certain is perfectly original.

Not so however with his next point. That has been dwelt upon by every twaddling Democratic writer in the country and the organ of Oregon City is merely repeating their statements. This point is that the interest on the debt is accumulating faster than it is paid and that the debt therefore is actually increasing. The prodigy at Willamette Falls puts it in this way:

> The interest on the national debt that existed on the 30th of June, 186_, at the rate of _ per cent per annum is $161,5_1 _7 98 for one year being $13,460,061 57 per month. We have seen that the payments since the 30th of June 186_ would average $4,798,_38 24 per month and we now see that the interest that would accumulate on the national debt for the same period would be $13,460,061 57. Hence, the payment of $7,46_,442 39, claimed as a reduction for September would leave unpaid of the interest of that month alone the sum of $5,961,425 33 and leave the principal untouched altogether, and yet this is claimed as a reduction of the national debt. What an absurdity!

Who would take the trouble to obtain correct information on financial affairs, when it is so much easier to write on finance without knowing anything of the subject? Everybody that is everybody but a few Democratic editors knows that the Secretary in making his monthly statements invariably computes the interest which accrues up to the very day the statement is made, adds it to the principal, deducts the cash in the Treasury from the sum, and the remainder thus found, when compared with the like result of the previous month, shows how much the debt has been reduced within that time. We don't expect to enlighten such dense and stolid ignorance as is exhibited in the above extract. We notice this matter simply because a somewhat similar statement has been made by many opposition papers some of which probably have intelligence enough to know that it is false though others like the Oregon City paper doubtless have no knowledge at all of the subject and are incapable of acquiring any.

In General

The New York Herald says that though the uninitiated might suppose that there was the greatest harmony and good feeling in the recent Democratic Convention of New York the discordant and antagonistic elements were really sharply at work. This is the view we presented of the matter at the time. Tweed and his Tammany ring were made to take back seats and the result of the Convention was a decided triumph for Belmont and his friends.

The "Sunday Leader" philosopher devotes the first half of his latest lucubration to the work of showing that millions of Asiatics are about to come into this country "to starve our present population of healthy Christian laborers" and "to erect their idols in every part of America," and the last half to the work of proving that such dreadful results never can possibly come to pass, for the reason that "the pagans will be mown down by Christians, and the result will be the 'the entire destruction from the face of the land of every Chinaman in America.' It only takes a column and a half to elucidate these astonishing propositions."

The announcement of the failure of the First National Bank of Nevada creates no apprehensions of loss in the minds of holders of its notes for the reason that assets fully sufficient to satisfy the claims of those who hold the bank's issues are in the hands of the Government. Here we see conspicuously exemplified the abundant advantages and safety of the present national banking system over that formerly in vogue in most of the States under State auspices. Formerly the failure of a bank threw a whole community into a fever of anxiety; but under the present system a bill-holder cannot be subjected to ultimate loss, even though a national bank should fail.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH

The State Fair at Salem

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

FIRST DAY

SALEM, Oct 11, 1869

About one thousand people were in attendance at the Fair Grounds to day. The opening was highly auspicious. Receipts at the gate up to four o'clock amounted to $1,000. The receipts for entries were $395 89.

The entries of horses and cattle comprised many fine specimens of blooded stock. So far the number of entries of various kinds are as follows: horses, 5_; cattle, 1_; machinery, 9; articles in the Ladies' Department, 300. Everything will be doubled or trebled to morrow.

The weather is delightful, and everybody is hopeful of a successful fair. No indication of complete success is wanting.

Salem is full, and many are already camped on the Grounds. The roads in all directions are full of new comers and it is believed a larger crowd will be present than was ever gathered here on a similar occasion.

Information for Settlers

The following communication from the General Land Office to the Land Office at Oregon City is sent to us for publication:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
August __, 1869.

Inquiry has been made at this office respecting the rights of settlers upon unsurveyed lands in Oregon—more particularly lands that may hereafter fall within the several grants made to the State for Military Wagon Roads. In reply I have to state as follows:

First. That by the enabling acts approved July 1864, July 1866 and February 1869, statutes vols 13 and 14, pages _5, 89 and 409, grants made for wagon road purposes in Oregon do not become effective until after the lands are surveyed.

Second. That upon filing the properly verified map of the line of road established according to law, it is the practice to order a withdrawal of the tracts ensuing to the State.

Third. That bona fide actual settlers under the pre-emption laws have legal inceptions in unsurveyed land, although in such cases no definite action can be had as to the completion of title until after the surveys are officially returned to the District Land Office.

Very Respectfully,
(Signed) J. S. WILSON,
Commissioner.

Register and Receiver, Oregon City, Oregon.

They have down in Massachusetts one hundred and ten lodges of St. Crispin's—shoemakers—who have used their organization to some purpose by contracting for coal in Philadelphia at wholesale. They get the coal delivered in Boston for less than nine dollars a ton. They are also buying flour at wholesale. Why cannot workingmen elsewhere imitate this example?

Fourteen thousand, one hundred and ninety two bushels of wheat was received at the Albany warehouse last week says the Register.

LETTER FROM SALEM

SALEM, Sunday, Oct 10, 1869

The Fair has not yet opened, for the best of reasons that the time has not yet arrived, nor the people either, but both are coming and there is a fair prospect that the one will open to-morrow and that the other will be here to see it. The universal opinion seems to be that should the weather continue fair there will be an immense number of people here from all the plains and prairies and hills and valleys of Oregon. The highways and byways are full of all manners of peoples and things all driving toward this common center of our little Webfoot universe. The Webfeet are coming to see the sights and the others are coming to see the Webfeet. If all are not pleased there can scarcely be a doubt but all will be amused. If not either there will be at least a stand off.

Along with two or three hundred other people anxious to be in at the rising of the curtain upon the first tableau, I went out this afternoon to the grounds with a gentlemanly driver of a hack who was polite enough to invite me to a seat in his vehicle. He assured me in the most positive manner that everybody goes, and so I goed. I found afterward that his politeness was not altogether of the most disinterested sort for he levied an income tax on me to the amount of an American coin on which is printed the words "In God we trust," twenty five cents. Had he been as trusting as I am I might have had that coin in my pocket at this moment, and he might have had a first class debtor. At the grounds I found about two hundred people engaged in preparing money traps in which I am told it is designed to secure such coins and embellished promises to pay as may get loose during the Fair. Some of these traps are already baited—some with bully lager beer and Oregon cider, cigars, nuts and gingerbread—others with a hodge podge of bad biscuits, bacon rashers and moldy coffee, called by way of derision I suppose a square meal—others still with huge flashy posters which promise to astonish the Webfoot nation with exhibitions of unparalleled feats, unheard of curiosities, the most wonderful freaks of nature, etc, etc. There is the circus, the flying horses, swings without number, side shows by the dozen, eating booths and drinking booths, thimble rigger dens, striped pig pens (the pig being seen through the bottom of a tumbler), jockey rings, gamblers and no doubt a sprinkling of thieves. If these don't catch all the gudgeons that come swimming by human effort in that direction may as well cease, and human ambition which seeks to earn bread and butter and fine linen and costly raiments without spoiling the complexion with nasty sweat may hereafter and forever be laid aside as a hazled out institution.

It is said that there will be here a much larger number of fine horses than ever before. There are here to day more than at any previous fair on the day preceding the opening. The hankering which our noble men and lovely women have for pure agricultural horse trots is likely to be gratified to any extent hitherto unparralleled in the history of our State fairs. At last the reform which has so long been clearly needed is visible to the naked eye, in the distance, and is seen to be advancing. Big red apples, mammoth squashes and vegetables of whatever sort are good things and handy to have in the family, farming machinery and articles of utility in the shops or in the household, are valuable adjuncts to human industry, but what business have they in an agricultural and industrial show? They should be kept the first where they will preserve, the latter where they may be made useful. The pavilion is clearly no place for a potato or a sewing machine and the adjoining shed is no place for a gang plow or a new fangled patent seed drill. The cellar, the sitting room and the field—these are the places for such. But a glorious horse trot! that is a different thing. It is a reasonable presumption that the State Agricultural Society takes the same view of this matter that I do; for while their stables will hold two hundred horses, and men are constantly employed in preparing the race track so that it shall be in first rate order, the pavilion is dilapidated, dirty and neglected, and there is not a new shed on the grounds for agricultural machines and articles of general or special utility. One of the old sheds and the largest, has given place to a mammoth restaurant and others have been torn down and carted off like cumberers of the ground. The condition of the pavilion is a standing shame to the society, and if it cannot be made decent should be also torn down and the room it occupies be given to a high pressure, back action double trapeze swing or something of that sort out of which somebody could realize ten cents a ride from each customer.

I find the hotels of the city are already running over full with visitors and many of the new arrivals are hurrying to and fro in search of quarters in private boarding houses and families. It may be said to the credit of the Salem people that they are hospitably answering to these calls and turning themselves almost out of house and home to entertain people whom they never saw before and about whom they were never before anxious enough to lose thereby a wink of sleep. All Salem during the fair will be a vast eating and lodging house. Everybody will of course, be uncomfortable, will be utterly miserable, but everybody will see the fair, visitors will go home grumbling and vowing never to go to another and the thousand or fifteen hundred landlords and landladies will thank God that the fair is over, and then go to cleaning up and finding their accustomed places in the household.

The Carter Troupe opened in Reed's new "Opera House" Saturday night, to a fair house and will play every night this week. Next week they will go to Portland. The opera house is a large building—large enough for San Francisco. In Salem it will prove to Mr. Reed an "elephant," I fear.

Daniel Webster wrote after continued provocation to the editor of a newspaper which referred to his private affairs, and especially to his not paying his debts. He said substantially: "It is true that I have not always paid my debts punctually and that I owe money. One cause of this is that I have not pressed those who owe me for pay. As an instance of this I enclose your father's note, made to me thirty years ago for money lent him to educate his boys."

New York Gold Quotations 130¾ @13[illegible]

BRIEF ITEMS.—Dr Summers [illegible] who filled the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church [illegible] this city during the past summer, delivered [illegible] lecture at Victoria, entitled "Six weeks in Oregon."

Our hotels are out crowded at present in consequence of parties and travelers having gone to the State Fair at Salem.

The [illegible] saved from the [illegible] wreck of the steamer Ranger has been brought to Vaughn's wharf and is being cleaned up and [illegible]. Part of it is in a pretty good state of preservation.

Hon. A B Meacham was in our city yesterday making arrangements to start for South-eastern Oregon to gather up the scattered Snake Indians on the Klamath reservation.

Sheriff Myers of Clackamas county went in pursuit of, and captured a horse thief who had stolen two mules, but as the sheriff and his aide were bringing them in the fellow gave them the slip and got away.

The Methodist church bell will be hung in some position in the new building during the present week, and its once long familiar tones to the people of Portland will call the congregation together for worship.

The proposition to hold all the Sabbath Schools in the city at the same hour, half past nine A M, was voted upon and rejected at the Methodist School on Sunday last.

We hear of some farmers who are making two crops of hay on the same land the present season, both crops being well matured. If any country in the world can beat this and have such fine weather in which to save the product, we have not heard of it.

Ferry boat No. 1 being fully repaired has resumed her place between this city and East Portland.

Apples and pears are just now very abundant in the Portland market houses and are selling at prices within the reach of all.

Over forty Chinese were in attendance at the Sunday school opened for these people in the basement of the Methodist church on last Sunday afternoon. Some of them we understand are making rapid progress in acquiring the rudiments of the English language and are much interested in their school.

The overland stage from the south now arrives usually about nine o'clock P M. The road is said to be again in good condition.

[illegible] county will pay [illegible] the [illegible] this season for county, State and school purposes [illegible] nearly as much as will be paid by both of the [illegible] of Marion and Linn.

E. G. Young, Esq, U S Marshal for Oregon, has gone [illegible] the mountains for the purpose of looking after the interests of the United States in that section of the State. Those whose propensity for gain tempts them to [illegible] violation or evasion of the law had better go slow, while he is around.

The boats up the Willamette yesterday morning were crowded with passengers bound for the State Fair. Many others will go up to-day and to-morrow. The fare is $8 for round trip from, and back to this city.

The weather yesterday was pleasantly warm, and every body said "What a splendid time for the Fair."

[illegible]—The young man Charles Burch, who took "French leave" of the officers from Justice Bull's Court, in this city, last week, played another sharp trick on the officers of Cowlitz county, at Monticello, on Friday. Marshal Saunders received a telegram that Burch was on the Wenat, bound for Monticello, and [illegible] by a dispatch to the sheriff at that place, authorizing his arrest. When the boat reached there Burch went ashore, and was pointed out to the sheriff, who [illegible] until the young man had taken his dinner at the hotel. Afterward being informed that he was about leaving, the sheriff made an attempt to arrest him when Burch inquired if he had "a requisition from the Governor of Oregon?" The sheriff being under the wrong [illegible] that he had no right to make the arrest without such requisition backed down and permitted Burch to go his way. He threatened to shoot the sheriff if he laid hands on him without the authority of the Governor. [illegible] had evidently been instructed, or at least he has [illegible] knowledge in the art of getting from under the [illegible] of the law.

[illegible].—We are in receipt of a communication from J. A. Smith, Esq, Recorder of Oregon City, which is too lengthy and hardly of sufficient public interest for publication in full, in which the writer states that the "[illegible]" referred to in the last number of the Enterprise is the man who was charged with stealing the [illegible] referred to elsewhere, and whom Mr Myers, the [illegible] Sheriff and financial agent of the Enterprise [illegible] suffered to escape from his custody after being arrested upon the warrant for which the "$2" spoken of in the Oregon City paper was charged by Mr Smith as Justice of the Peace. Mr S. in his letter further says "[illegible] Mr. Myers been successful in bringing these two [illegible] 'John Does' into town I could probably [illegible] Mr. McKinney more detailed information in [illegible] to them. As regards the unpleasant exposure [illegible] threatens to make, it would be well for [illegible] whether he could not save himself some [illegible] by making inquiries as to these matters at the proper time."

[illegible].—The ordinance for the improvement of [illegible], has been before the Common Council for some time, owing to the vexed question of opening the [illegible] through the plaza or keeping it closed at that point. The members have been unable to come to a satisfactory conclusion in regard to the validity of the ordinance which, as now amended, provides for the plaza [illegible] as it is. The owners of the property [illegible] on the street, as we learn, are generally, with but few exceptions in favor of opening it through the plaza, some contending that unless this is [illegible] will revert to the original owners. A majority of those interested throughout the city, how[illegible] we believe are opposed to cutting the plaza in two, [illegible] the street through. The ordinance was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property to enable them to come to some understanding on the [illegible] or make some compromise in regard to it, if possible.

[illegible] HOUSE.—Much has been said about the [illegible] of a public market house in this city, but [illegible] know that the matter has ever been brought [illegible] the Council previous to the last meeting of that body. At that time a petition signed by the Butcher's [illegible] was read and referred to a committee. The [illegible] ask the Council to set apart a piece or lot of [illegible] they propose to erect a suitable building [illegible] by them for a number of years, as agreed upon [illegible] and city authorities, at the end of which time they will turn the property over to the city [illegible] value for the buildings erected by them. [illegible] by this association may be, and perhaps, the most feasible and quickest plan which the city can adopt to secure the early construction of this [illegible] public improvement. That such an improvement would inure to the benefit of a large class of our citizens, has been repeatedly shown.

[illegible].—A dairyman named Sheppard, living across [illegible] short distance from this city, has had a man [illegible] for some four or six weeks past. Yesterday [illegible] on returning to his ranch at about 8 o'clock [illegible] found his hired man gone and five or six [illegible] dollars coin, which he had left in his house, also [illegible] very small doubt in Sheppard's mind [illegible] who went by the name of Andrew [illegible] taken it. Mr. Sheppard thinks the thief went [illegible] of Vancouver. The police of this city [illegible] of the facts yesterday, and we [illegible] steps will be taken to capture the rascal, [illegible] be able to elude. Mr Sheppard is [illegible] frugal citizen and the loss will fall some[illegible] on him unless the money is recovered.

[illegible] The members of Protection Engine Co [illegible] nominated R Holman of their company, for [illegible] Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department [illegible] to be held on the first Monday in [illegible] Charles Reynard is also named by the same [illegible] Assistant Engineer. These gentlemen have [illegible] and energetic members of the Department, and will, if elected doubtless make thorough and [illegible]. Mr Holman has no superior as a thorough [illegible] fireman in Portland and he has a [illegible] in and out of the fire companies of the city who would be glad to see him occupy the position of Chief.

[illegible].—The entertainments given by Prof. Mor[illegible] the [illegible] magician, at Oro Fino Theater on [illegible] last night, were highly entertaining and showed the Professor to be a master in the art of deception. Some of his tricks are beyond explanation by the [illegible] and calculated to astonish people at the wonderful feats which were or rather seemed to be performed with the utmost ease. But whatever deception there [illegible] the performance, the distribution of prizes [illegible] to be conducted on a fair basis. Mrs Capt [illegible] drew the prize of $20 gold coin. The entertainment [illegible] will consist of an entirely new programme.

[illegible].—A large frame building is being erected [illegible] corner of Morrison and Third street.

[illegible], Esq is building a fine two-story residence [illegible] Park street.

[illegible] Francis is also putting up a fine dwelling house at the corner of Eighth and Washington streets.

[illegible] is putting up a tower or observatory on [illegible] of his residence on Alder street.

The block on which stands the elegant residence of S [illegible], Esq, has been surrounded by an iron fence of [illegible] and tasteful finish.

[illegible]—The George S Wright is discharging her cargo, [illegible] mostly of coal for the Gas Co. and will [illegible] for Victoria, as per advertisement.

The bark Whistler will drop down the river to complete [illegible] cargo during the week.

The Helen W Almy from San Francisco and the A [illegible] from New York are now due at this port.

The [illegible] ship Gri[illegible] will leave San Francisco for [illegible] to-day.

The [illegible] Telfair from Victoria will probably reach [illegible] during the day.

[illegible]. The members of the Nonpareil Lodge of Good Templars will give a public sociable and supper at their hall, on First street, between Yamhill and Taylor this evening. Every necessary arrangement has been made, as we learn to make the occasion one of enjoyment to all who may attend. The price of admission is fixed at 75 cents to more than the actual cost of the supper. A general invitation is extended to all to be present. The festivities will be interspersed with music and other interesting exercises.

[illegible].—Our evening contemporary seems rather disposed to aggravate the circumstance of an apparently slight disagreement between some of the parties heretofore engaged in constructing the East Side Railroad. We are informed that the matter is not of such a serious nature as to retard the work at all. We certainly think no journal having the interests of Oregon at heart would be likely to disparage the enterprise of building a railroad on either side of the river.

[illegible].—A considerable amount of grain and other produce is constantly arriving by the Willamette steamers. Prices however are still down so low that but a small [illegible] is left as profit to producers.

[illegible] is in the Telegraph Office for Professor [illegible].

ALL QUIET. Our streets yesterday presented rather a Sunday like appearance. But few people were in from the country, many of our citizens gone to the State Fair and others preparing to go. We presume that quiet will prevail generally in Portland until everybody and his wife gets back from the Fair. We observed yesterday about [illegible] the distance of three blocks on Front street [illegible] which not a man or team was to be seen on the [illegible] of the street. This is an occurrence which has not lately happened in Portland.

BEFORE HIS HONOR.—Mary M [illegible] to be a slightly [illegible] somewhat profane and partially bacchic in her conduct and language on the streets and was arrested and taken before his honor Recorder Anderson yesterday.

Mr M C [illegible] S J [illegible] the stationer—for assaulting [illegible] Fleating, of the Smith, was also taken to the same Court to have justice meted out to him.

INCORRECT.—We are informed that the item published in the city papers relative to the fair or festival to be given by the children of the Beth Israel school on last Sunday was incorrect. No such an entertainment was intended to be given by them. From what source the item was obtained we are unable to say.

THE EQUALIZER!
Treating Disease by Vacuum
DR. H. A. BODMAN

HAVING PURCHASED HADFIELD'S EQUALIZER and the Patent Right for Multnomah county would respectfully inform his friends and the public generally that he is prepared to treat successfully those Chronic cases on which all other means of cure have failed.

Having used this Instrument in connection with his medical practice for about three months he is satisfied that it will accomplish all that is claimed for it in curing Chronic Disease. He does not believe in the system of advertising cases cured, but any number of cures may be seen on record at his office, consisting principally of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Curvature of the Spine, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Weak Chest, Asthma, Nervous Chest, Weak Lungs, Weak Back, Weak, Stiff and Rheumatic Limbs, Sciatica, Spasms, Epilepsy, Palsy, St. Vitus Dance, Prolapsus Uteri, Obstructed Menstruation with all their concomitant Diseases, Impotency and all kinds of weakness of the Generative Organs, Spermatorrhoea confidently cured in from four to six weeks without medicine.

He uses other remedies when necessary, but the Equalizer generally performs the cure without the aid of any medicine whatever. It brings a greater supply of blood and nutrition to all weak parts, thus creating new life and tone and health and strength in those parts. It breaks up congestion and inflammation by equalizing the circulation throughout every part of the system.

Give it a fair trial and you will be satisfied with the results. It has been examined by thousands of physicians of all Schools of Medicine, and there has not been one dissenting voice to the correctness of the principle, all acknowledge that it fills a vacuum in the Science of Medicine.

[illegible]
To the embraces of the bay
Whose [illegible]
Whose deep heart with [illegible] motion
The boat [illegible] away
Swept through [illegible] the yearning ocean

We sat and waited for the boat
Nor thought of river, bay or ocean
The sad words dying in the throat
Each silent soul's suppressed emotion
Was but the surface grief that broke
Above our being's soundless ocean

We sat and waited for the boat;
It floated down the silent river
And with the boatman's warning [illegible]
It tore you from my [illegible] forever
The cruel boat sailed down the river
Away through the sunny summer weather
Bereaved on the [illegible] strand
I watched you leave my [illegible]

Alone I wait another boat
And still the sunny summer [illegible]
The [illegible] fall [illegible]
Across the purple hills of heather
Under their shadow runs the river
Flecked all over with fickle sails
With summer barks that race together
And doze and dream in the sleeping gales

The summer barks are gaily laden
All sailing on to the summer main
Laden with lover, laden with maiden
Sailing and singing, nor dreaming of pain
The rose and snow of their woven fingers
Touch in the water flushed and fair
The dropping gold of the sunset lingers
Glinting with glory their gusty hair

Alone I wait an unseen boat,
Still sailing down a sunless river
It strikes the shore and the spirit note
Calling for me makes my being shiver
I shall sail alone down this sunless river
Away from this sunny summer weather
I should not fear this sullen river
Though it bore me from beautiful earth forever
Beloved could we go together

Ancient Mounds on the Rocky Mountains

An account was recently given of the opening of an ancient mound in Southern Utah similar to those of the Mississippi Valley, in which were found relics of the unknown builders, indicating much artistic skill. It was stated that this was the first evidence found of the Mound Builders west of the Rocky Mountains. We are now able to announce, for the first time, as we suppose, the discovery of similar mounds evidently built by the same race, high up on the Rocky Mountains.

The discovery was made by C. A. Deane of this city, while at work on a Government survey, a few weeks ago. He found upon the extreme summit of the snowy range structures of stone, evidently of very ancient origin, and hitherto unknown or unnoticed. Opposite to, and also north of the head of South Boulder Creek and on the summit of the range, Mr. Deane and his party observed large numbers of the granite rocks, many of them as large as two men could lift, in a position that could not have been the result of chance. They had evidently been placed upright in a line, conforming to the general contour of the dividing ridge, and frequently extending in an unbroken line for one or two hundreds yards.

Many of the stones have fallen over or are leaning, while others retain their upright position. In two places connected with this line are mounds of stones, loosely laid up, about two feet in hight and embracing a circular area of about ten feet in diameter. The stones were evidently collected on the spot, as the surface is cleared for a space of several yards around the structures. These lines and mounds of stone bear every mark of extreme antiquity, as the disintegrated granite has accumulated to a considerable depth at their base, and the rocks in the mounds are moss grown. The feature more particularly identifying these structures with those of the Mound Builders elsewhere, is, that they present at intervals projections pointing to the westward. We are thus particular in the description of these Rocky Mountain mounds which are extraordinary in position if not in character, in the hope that antiquarians visiting our Territory may be induced to examine them. It would not involve much labor to open them, and possibly they cover relics that may add something to our small stock of knowledge of the ancient race who constructed these and similar works all over the continent.

The walls and mounds we have described are situated 3,000 feet above the timber line. It is, therefore, hardly supposable that they were built for altars or sacrifice. They were not large enough for shelter or defense. The more probable supposition is, that, like the larger mounds elsewhere, they were places of sepulture, and perhaps also at the same time, historical memorials pointing with their stone fingers in the direction of the country from which the builders or their ancestors migrated. The three mounds may mark the resting places of those who, for some distinction, were buried as near to heaven as possible. In the utter lack of facts, we have here a broad and free field for conjecture.

Who the mound builders were is a question of interest to antiquarians. It is agreed that they preceded the Indians, and were a more cultivated race. On the Kirguese steppes in Northern Asia are found numerous mounds similar to those in the Mississippi Valley indicating a common race on both continents, but the projections of the Asiatic mounds point southward, while those of this continent point westward. Assuming that the race originated in Southern Asia according to Scriptural account, then upon both continents the mounds point in the same direction from which their builders came. One conjecture is that the mound builders of this continent were the ten lost tribes of the Jews, but this is mere conjecture.

We have a clue to the great age of the American mounds in the fact that none of them occur in the lowest of the terraces which mark the subsidence of the rivers, and some have been washed away by rivers which have receded a half a mile or more since they were built. From these and other indications some antiquarians have estimated the age of these mounds as certainly more than two thousand years. Col. John W. Foster, of Chicago, who has given much valuable time and careful study to this subject, thinks they were vastly more ancient, dating back indeed to a period long antecedent to all historic record, even to the time when men lived with the mammoth and other animals long extinct. These questions may never be solved, but they are now discussed with extraordinary interest and every ray of light on the subject is eagerly welcomed. We present to the antiquarian the newly discovered mounds of the Rocky mountains, as offering something novel for investigation.—Denver News

SMOKE AND RAIN DROPS.—The report of the English inspectors appointed to investigate the various causes of the contamination of the atmosphere in the manufacturing towns of Great Britain, is said to furnish valuable addition to knowledge on the subject of the ingredients of the smoke caused by the consumption of coal. In London a funeral hue is imparted to the statues of public men, the exteriors of churches and houses, the trees, the birds and the clothing worn by the inhabitants, and in other parts of England the smoke nuisance is almost as intolerable. The black, however, are not the only subjects of complaint, for in some districts the smoke arising from coal, highly impregnated with sulphur, condenses into an acid rain which kills the vegetation and is exceedingly deleterious to the health of man and animals. The chemist employed by the inspectors under the English Alkali act has acquired such skill in his investigations that he can classify smoke in the clearest and most definite manner and can dissect or dissolve it into its primitive ingredients. In the same way this skillful chemist has been enabled to analyze the rain drops and to ascertain how much acid, how much soot and how much salt from the sea they contain. The rain which falls around certain large towns has been examined and large diagrams of the drops have been prepared, in which the most curious crystal pictures are delineated. The drop of Manchester rain resembles the splintering and shivering of a large block of ice in which slats of stone are incrusted. London rain resembles the branches of a large tree deprived of its leaves and the Newcastle rain appears to contain blocks of coal. These investigations are very minute and spores the fifty-thousandth part of an inch in diameter have been detected and enumerated.
